Censorship Still Conceals Whereabouts Of 45 Planes

SQUADRON IS UNREPORTED AT HONOLULU

Huge Armada Expected to Arrive Sometime Today at Midway Islands

(Copyright, 1935, by United Press)
HONOLULU, May 11.—(UP)—Forty-five U. S. Navy planes that started a mass flight over Pacific waters Thursday remained obscured today in the same effective censorship that concealed them from the time of the take-off.

Apparently headed for Midway island, 1,200 miles from Hawaii, the squadron of crack bombers and scouting planes had been unreported for approximately 30 hours early today. A non-stop flight to Midway could have been made in about 11 hours. Presumably secret orders called for at least one stop en route.

The wartime censorship, which kept progress of the 45 planes with crews of 200 officers and men secret, brought home to Hawaii and the United States the full impact of the effectiveness of naval maneuvers in the vast amphitheater of war in the Pacific. Even the navy department at Washington had no information of the progress of the flight.

No apprehension for the safety of the squadron was felt here, but the secrecy heightened interest in the navy's greatest air and surface maneuvers. Generally good flying weather prevailed over the route expected to be followed between Hawaii and Midway. A rain squall Thursday night near Midway passed without severe storms developing.

Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, commander-in-chief of the U. S. Fleet, may have directed that the squadron land in groups along the intermediate islands between Hawaii and Midway. French frigates, 600 miles off Hawaii, was considered a likely spot for a landing if the squadron remained intact.

It also was regarded as possible that the mass flight was broken up once the squadron passed far out to sea. In this event smaller groups of air fighters could conduct scouting expeditions between Hawaii and the Aleutian islands. This premise might permit the "defending" fleet to detect the approach of the "attacking" force, expected to make a thrust at any time.

The main force of the fleet today was believed to be well to the westward of Honolulu with the protective screen of light cruisers and destroyers deploying over a wide area. These warships could serve as bases for the planes, providing food for the fliers and gasoline and oil for the machines.

A hint from unofficial sources that the air squadron would arrive at Midway today offered the only indication that the two-day sec-

Jury Trying Lamson Is Deadlocked

Halt Deliberations Today to Obtain List of Exhibits in Trial

SAN JOSE, Cal., May 11.—(UP)—Suddenly halting the deliberations which will determine whether David Lamson is to receive death or freedom, the jury today requested a list of the murder trial exhibits.

The seven men and five women asked that exhibits introduced at the trial be sent to the jury room. It had been out four and one-half hours at the time.

Conflicting rumors and a minor wrangle between Superior Judge Robert R. Syer and Prosecutor Edwin McKenzie marked the latest trial developments.

McKenzie met Judge Syer in a corridor and protested because the jury had not received a written copy of the jurist's instructions. The judge explained that the jurors had not requested one.

Sent to the jury as exhibits were the piece of pipe with which the state contends Alene Lamson was killed, another pipe found in the Lamson cottage yard, a human skull used as evidence, a life size picture of Mrs. Lamson, lying dead in her bathtub, a blood-spattered clothes hamper, a photograph of the hamper, a rubber doll used by the defense to show that hair could be pulled by impact with a wash basin, an autopsy chart, a blackboard and a list of expert witnesses.

MEEHAN WARNS ARRESTS WILL BE MADE FOR VIOLATIONS OF STATE BASIC SPEED LIMITS

THE CALIFORNIA Highway Patrol will continue to arrest motorists who exceed the basic speed limits set up in the California Vehicle Act whenever its officers are satisfied such motorists are violating the provisions of the law, Capt. Henry Meehan, of the Orange County unit announced today.

Officers have been instructed to arrest any person who, in their judgment, is driving at such a rate of speed as to endanger life, limb or property. It will then be incumbent upon the accused to prove no such danger was involved.

This statement was issued today following receipt of orders from Theodore J. Roche, director of Motor Vehicles, in response to inquiries concerning the department's interpretation of the recent decision of the Third District Court of Appeal which was, in effect, that the California law does not provide a fixed maximum speed limit.

Roche, in his letter to the local office said:

"The department sees nothing in the decision of the court that will give any motorist the right to assume he may violate the speed laws with impunity or requiring officers of the Highway Patrol to ignore speeding whenever in their opinion the driver is operating his vehicle in a manner endangering the life, limb or property."

"Under proper circumstances an officer is justified in subjecting a motorist to arrest when the speed laws are being violated and I have so instructed them."

"Unless upon a subsequent trial it shall appear from the evidence that he was not guilty of violating any of the provisions of Section 113 (a) of the California Vehicle Act the trial court is legally authorized to convict him."

"The department is determined that the highways shall be made safe and it has ample proof in its records that excessive speed is the primary cause of many accidents."

"The motorist who drives faster than the basic speeds set up by the act does so on his own responsibility. It will be up to him to prove he was not endangering life, limb or property."

"Our officers have instructions to arrest every person exceeding the basic speeds whenever in their judgment such person is driving in a manner to endanger life, limb or property."

Lolita Mead Is Selected As Hostess

Plans for Joint Exhibition With Riverside Discarded by Group

ORANGE county will have its own separate exhibit in the California-Pacific International Exposition at San Diego, it was learned today following a trip made yesterday by members of the committee in charge of the exhibit.

Until the group traveled to San Diego yesterday to arrange details for a joint exhibit with Riverside county, plans had been made for an exhibit with the sister county. It was learned at the exposition grounds, however, that there is an extra space which was not taken by another county which was to have done so.

The Orange county delegation decided to make the most of the opportunity offered. Secretary Howard L. Wood of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce said today, and decided to place a separate exhibit which is expected to create considerable good will for the county.

It has been decided to use the jewel box exhibit used at the San Bernardino National Orange Show by Orange county and which attracted wide and favorable attention. This exhibit is a large jewel box, in which the jewels are golden Orange county oranges. In the center of the jewel box is a map on which is shown the attractions of the county, including the oranges, beaches, oil wells, etc.

Orange county's exhibit will occupy a space about 12 by 30 feet at the big exposition. It is expected to be one of the most attractive county exhibits entered. Plans under discussion now call for using the mechanical nodding flowers previously used in the National Orange Show exhibit to further beautify the exhibit.

Part of the $3000 appropriated by the board of supervisors for Orange county's exhibit will be saved by using the attractive exhibit, which will be made more beautiful than ever.

It was learned today also that Miss Lolita Mead, popular Santa Ana girl, will represent Orange county as hostess in the exhibit at San Diego. Miss Mead has been prominent in Junior Ebel, athletic and other activities in this city.

The group from Orange county who went to San Diego yesterday included V. D. Johnson, county publicity agent, Agriculture Commissioner D. W. Tubbs, who has been added to the original committee, Supervisors Willard Smith, N. E. West and W. C. Jerome, Secretary Howard Wood of the Santa Ana chamber, Secretary Harry Welch of Newport Harbor chamber, Secretary George Reid, of Anaheim chamber, Secretary Harry May, of Fullerton chamber, and Dr. F. W. Slaughter, county purchasing agent.

WHIPSTOCKING GETS APPROVAL IN COMMITTEE

Speaker Craig Gives Assurance City, State Will Share in Profits

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 11.—(UP)—State regulated tidal-land oil drilling from upland locations by means of slanted wells was approved today by the assembly all industries committee.

The measure provides for development of all state-owned tideland oil pools on a royalty basis, but would prevent actual drilling on the beaches or from piers and islands erected over the tidelands. All drilling would be done from upland property.

It proposes that the surveyor general may enter into agreements with oil companies to permit slant drilling operations to tap oil and gas deposits under the tidelands. Royalty would be called from 5.2 to 54 per cent, depending upon production, and averaging about 16 1/2 per cent. Proponents estimated the state would collect $2,000,000 a biennium, in addition to the $2,000,000 now being received from operators in the Huntington Beach field.

The bill, introduced by Assemblyman Michael J. Burns, Eureka, was designed to eliminate objections to tideland drilling which arose from complaints that beaches were spoiled by derricks and oil.

Craig Appears

Speaker Craig, who has fought to allow drilling in the water, declared that as the people of the state had twice voted decisively against tideland drilling as a menace to the beaches, the committee ought to disregard that alternative and report out the Burns bill, which definitely forbids location of wells out in the water.

Craig stated that Standard Oil, which controls the littoral eighty acres northwest of Twenty-third street, Huntington Beach, on which any wells slanted into the state's pool must be located, had entered into an agreement with the Hancock Oil company and the Signal Oil and Gas company for the slant drilling if the bill under consideration should be passed.

City to Share

"Huntington Beach also has an agreement by which it will get a

3000 FARMERS PLAN TO MARCH ON WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(UP)—C. H. Day, organizer of the farmers "march" on Washington to support the AAA, arrived today with the prediction that the gathering next week would attract 2000 to 3000 farmers.

"The crowd's going to be bigger than we anticipated," Day said. He believed the new labor department auditorium, which had been obtained for the meeting, probably "won't hold 'em."

Explaining that the movement was to assure the administration of "our appreciation for the AAA cooperation in any future programs," Day said Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, AAA administrator Chester C. Davis, and other department officials have agreed to address the farmers.

Special trains and busses from farming regions in the cotton belt and midwest are being made up to carry the pro-AAA legions to Washington, Day said. He estimated there would be representation from almost every agricultural state.

Texas will send 500, Louisiana, "at least one full train," Arkansas 125, and the corn and wheat belt states only slightly smaller delegations, Day estimated.

The meetings will last two days and will go on record in favor of retention of processing taxes which Day said were "a fundamental part of the AAA program."

"We feel like the depression is not quite over and we want to retain the AAA programs until it is," Day said.

He said the movement was being financed entirely by the farmers themselves and had no official connection.

"How was the money raised?" he was asked.

"Wal, sir, it's surprise you," Day replied. "The old boys out in the field are passing around the hat to send delegates."

The movement's organizer operates a 320-acre farm near Plainview, Texas, and has signed AAA crop control agreements for cotton, wheat, corn and hogs.

PATMANITES STILL SHORT FEW VOTES

Newly Appointed Senator from New Mexico Said Strong for Bonus

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(UP)—Patman bonus bill forces today claimed their chances of overriding a veto of the $2,200,000,000 inflationary measure had been strengthened by appointment of Dennis Chavez, D., to succeed the late Bronson N. Cutting, R., N. M.

Sen. Elmer Thomas, D., Okla., a leader of the Patman group, said he had been informed that "Chavez is with us and will arrive on Monday ready to vote to override a veto."

The Patmanites, however, still appeared to be a few votes short of the two-thirds majority necessary to override a veto.

Telegrams at the rate of 250 an hour poured in on President Roosevelt and senators in response to an appeal by the veterans lobby. Officials of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars urged all their members to appeal to the president to approve the Patman bill.

Sen. Huey P. Long, D., La., vigorous Patman supporter, was attempting to find time on a broadcasting chain for a radio appeal to-night. Veterans' leaders said Father Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit priest, was expected to make another appeal to his followers to deluge the White House and capitol with telegrams urging enactment of the measure.

Thomas said it was impossible to predict when the bill would be released from the senate, where it is being delayed by parliamentary maneuvers to hold it up until Patman forces are at full strength.

Statements by two New Dealers—Chairman Jesse Jones of the RFC and Gov. Marriner S. E. Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board—that enactment of the Patman bill would not endanger the government's financial position were not interpreted as expressions of administration attitude. Nor did they appear to have any effect on the senate line up.

ROOSEVELT CREATES NEW U. S. BUREAU

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(UP)—Ten minutes before he set out on a weekend fishing trip, President Roosevelt today signed an executive order establishing the rural electrification administration to carry out part of the work-relief program.

Organization of this division followed announcement that $400,000,000 will be divided among the states next week for highway and grade crossing elimination.

Mr. Roosevelt allotted $775,000 for initial administration expenses of the rural electrification administration, which will be organized by Morris L. Cooke, Philadelphia engineer.

(Copyright 1935 by United Press)
ST. JOHNS, N. F., May 11.—(UP)—Police and World War veterans today patrolled the streets of St. Johns, capital of England's oldest colony, in anticipation of a re-outbreak of bloody rioting that marked months of growing dissatisfaction among unemployed.

Looted shops, broken shop windows, a crippled light and power service and scores of bandaged heads were signs of an afternoon and night during which organized unemployed made good their long-voiced threat to take direct action.

Fearing hostile demonstrations during the king's jubilee celebration Monday the commission government of Newfoundland's financial crisis promised that work would be provided for unemployed men, it was charged.

The promise, unemployed leaders said, was not made good, and 5,000 men and women, at a mass meeting Tuesday, pledged themselves to march on the government to assert their claims.

Three thousand of them paraded late yesterday to the colonial building to interview the government with their truncheons and uncommissioned policemen charged

CHAVEZ NAMED TO SUCCEED CUTTING

SANTA FE, N. M., May 11.—(UP)—Gov. Clyde Tingley today announced appointment of Dennis Chavez, former Democratic congressman, to the United States senate to fill the vacancy left by the tragic death of Sen. Bronson Cutting, Republican, who was killed in an airplane crash in Missouri.

Chavez will hold office until the next general election, in November, 1936, when a successor will be elected to occupy the seat left vacant by Cutting's death during the last four years of his six-year term.

Chavez, actual head of the Democratic party in New Mexico, was defeated by Cutting by a margin of about 1000 votes in the senatorial race last November. He had filed a contest with the elections committee of the senate, which was pending at Cutting's death.

GOVERNMENT BANS TWO OIL COMPANIES

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(UP)—Oil Administrator Harold L. Ickes today barred two major petroleum companies—the Texas company of New York City and the Continental Oil company of Oklahoma—from bidding for government oil business because of alleged violation of NRA labor regulations.

Ickes announced his drastic action in letters to Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson and Admiral Christian J. Peoples, head of the procurement division of the U. S. Treasury.

"That both of these companies failed to comply with decisions of the petroleum labor policy board which established violations by them of Section 7A of NRA is the basis upon which the companies were barred," Ickes said.

He recently found the Texas company to have "illegally imposed a company union upon its employees" at its West Tulsa, Okla., refinery.

RAID BARES PLOT FOR FAIR RACKET

OAKLAND, May 11.—(UP)—Exposing what he termed a "coastwide slot machine racket," District Attorney Earl Warren of Alameda county today claimed the racketeers planned to "move in" on the San Diego exposition.

Ramifications of the racket purportedly reach from San Diego to Seattle along the coast, with headquarters in Oakland, Warren said.

The district attorney's expose followed a raid on the Mills Sales company of Oakland in which 200 slot machines were seized, secret files were confiscated and Charles Kitzmiller, asserted slot machine operator, was arrested.

Kitzmiller was charged with bribery and proferring bribes.

WOUNDS FATAL TO POLICE INFORMER

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—(UP)—Carl York, 22-year-old police informer, who was shot down by detectives through "mistake," died today in General hospital.

He succumbed to five bullet wounds while police sought to link him with a series of recent filling station robberies.

They claimed nine attendants identified the youth as one of two bandits who staged a series of recent spectacular raids in which the attendants were kidnapped.

York denied any complicity in the robberies.

He was shot down earlier this week by four detectives, "staked out" at his home on suspicion he was connected with the holdups.

Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLY HILLS, May 11.—(To The Editor of The Register): Yesterday as I went to press we couldn't find the Midway Islands, today as I go to print we can't find the Islands or the 48 aeroplanes either. Maybe the Japanese hid the islands on 'em. Correction note, Frank Hawkes says I beat him out nine hours. His flight from Buenos Aires to Los Angeles was 39 hours, and not 48. He says Brazil has the best air force in South America. Says England and France have peddled a lot of old planes to a lot of those countries, that the U. S. is the only one sells 'em the latest model ones. Their own army and navy takes all their factories can make.

Yours, WILL ROGERS

67 FARM FAMILIES ARRIVE IN ALASKA

PALMER, Alaska, May 11.—(UP)—An advancing civilization invaded the virgin Matanuska river valley today as 67 farm families oriented themselves in new homes in the "land of the midnight sun."

Routed from their denuded Minnesota homes by the uncompromising pall of drought and depression, the newcomers occupied white tents constructed for them as temporary dwellings until more comfortable homes may be established. They will attempt to forge a thriving farm colony within the five years allotted by the government to succeed—or fail.

INTERVENTION LIKELY

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—(UP)—Hopeful of government intervention in the Pacific coast oil tanker strike, F. M. Kelley, secretary of the newly organized marine federation of the Pacific, today bid for such mediation.

Kelley said:

"The oil tanker strike is beginning to look as though it were a test of who was the stronger—the government or the oil companies."

"The unions aren't looking for trouble. The men want to return to work. Only federal intervention—appointment of an arbitration board to settle the tanker strike—can prevent it from spreading to all associated coast-wide shipping."

COMMUNIST FLAG TORN TO SHREDS

LONDON, May 11.—(UP)—A Communist banner was unfurled with a flourish—and as quickly torn to shreds by cheering subjects—when King George and Queen Mary formally received the mayors and mayoresses of the eight northern boroughs today in connection with the king's jubilee celebration.

The king and queen appeared to be amused by the incident.

The banner, inscribed "Twenty-five Years of War and Unemployment," was disclosed on top of a huge block of apartments adjacent to the Marylebone Town Hall where the reception was held. It was soon torn to pieces.

Their majesties drove to North London in an open landau drawn by four bay horses with blue and white clad postillions and scarlet-coated riders. They waved gaily to 70,000 children at a picnic on the green and in St. James' parks and the children shrilled a wild reply.

CRAIG, WEINBLATT TO FILE APPEAL

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—(UP)—Appellate Justice Gavin W. Craig and Joe Weinblatt, a politician, were expected to file 9000 of appeal today from a year's jail sentence and a $1000 fine imposed by Federal Judge Charles G. Briggles on their conviction of conspiracy charges.

Sentence was passed after the Springfield, Ill., jurist overruled their motion for a new trial.

Tears welled in the 57-year-old justice's eyes and Weinblatt blushed as the court announced they would have to go to jail for allegedly conspiring to obstruct justice in the prosecution of mail fraud indictments against officials of the defunct Italia Petroleum corporation.

Both were freed under $5000 bail each, pending appeal.

SECON FIGHTS FOR INCOME TAX BILL

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 11.—(UP)—Prepared to fight for his original income tax bill which won lower house approval, Assemblyman Ford A. Chatters, Lind-say, issued a statement today in which he attacked repeated assertions that his measure carries the highest rate of any state in the nation.

His bill proposed a state income tax at one-third the federal rate. The joint legislative revenue and taxation committee has voted for a rate one-fifth that of the federal levy.

"The drive against an income tax or in favor of a lower house rate is evidence that taxpayers with large incomes are endeavoring by all types of strategy to shove the brunt of the tax burden on persons with small incomes," Chatters said.

HOLLYWOOD HAPPENINGS By DAN THOMAS, Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, May 11.—June Knight now claims the record for the strangest fan letter. The other day June received a letter from a shoemaker in Ohio. On the sole was written, "If you will send me a large autographed picture of yourself, I will forward the mate to this shoe." As the shoe fit perfectly, the blond actress lost no time in dispatching the photo.

Test of True Love Dick Powell claims to finally have discovered the hardest job on earth—making screen love to a close friend who is married. Dick has made love to Ruby Keeler—always before the cameras—more times than he can remember. And he never experienced the slightest difficulty, since he and Ruby are not especially close friends off the set. But now he's working with Joan Blondell and that's a different story. Joan and her husband, George Barris, are two of Powell's closest friends. The three are constantly together. As a result, Dick is finding it very difficult to make realistic love to Joan.

Merle Oberon's next picture, after "The Dark Angel," will be "Lorna Doone," adapted from Richard Doddridge Blackmore's novel of the same title.

Director Frank Lloyd has sent two fishermen out to catch 10 sharks at least 10 feet in length and keep them alive until he's ready to use them for scenes in "Mutiny on the Bounty."

Contract Bridge-Bidding By Hazel Parr Thronson

Contract bridge is a pleasant pastime and recreation when you are able to play a correctly bid hand. In order to arrive at the correct contract, however, it is necessary to understand your partner's bidding, the bids made by your opponents and to know how to value and bid your own hand. Therefore, instead of a blind passing contest you must have a reliable method to estimate the trick taking possibilities in your partnership. Because of recent changes in the Laws and Scoring of Contract Bridge released April 1st of this year, and because a majority of the nation's bridge players have acquired the ability to see the trick taking possibilities of lower cards, and actually winning that extra low card trick with marked consistency, the Culbertson System has improved its rules of bidding. Basically it is much the same and probably never will change only to include improvements.

The very first step is to memorize the new improved 1935 "Culbertson Standard Table of Honor Tricks," so well and accurately that you can count the honor strength of your hand at a glance. This table is based on defensive values for all bids and represents the probable tricks should the opponents win the contract. That table is as follows:

One-Half Trick K x x or Q J x x Q x and Q x of different suits One Trick A K Q or K J 10 K x and Q x of different suits One and One-Half Tricks A Q x or K Q J Two Tricks A K

Plus values: K x, J x and J x. King alone, Jack in A K, J, A Q, J, A Q, Queen in A K Q. Two plus values equal about one-half honor trick, if same value has not been counted previously. "x" means any card lower than a ten spot.

After thoroughly mastering the above table, you have the starting point to definitely value your hand and to pass or bid accordingly. The Approach Principle has proved to be good in the past and to make it even more effective than before, the 1935 requirements of biddable suits are lowered when the required honor strength is in the hands. A minimum biddable suit is now any four card suit with the Jack and one higher honor, as Q J x x K

Many of the programs of the two American networks do not come all the way to the Coast, but these programs may easily be captured from the short-wave stations of the two networks—WXXE, New York, 19.7, 11.8 and 6.12 megacycles, and WXXAU, Philadelphia, 9.59 and 6.66 megacycles, maintained by CBS, and WXXK, Pittsburgh, 6.14 megacycles, and WXXAF, Schenectady, 9.53 megacycles, carrying the NBC programs. Injuries received in an automobile accident on April 20 brought death last evening to Birchard C. Moore, 26, of Santa Ana, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Moore of 424 West Second street. Death occurred at a hospital in Indio where the young man was taken for treatment following the fatal crash.

Death resulted from a crushed chest, fractured ribs, and complications resulting from internal injuries. The accident happened as Moore was returning to Santa Ana after one week's work on the Metropolitan aqueduct, when a blowout occurred, throwing the car into a steel pole.

Algeron Howell of 409 South Birch street, also a Metropolitan employee, who was riding with Moore, escaped with minor injuries.

TO FORM LOCAL UNIT OF STATE HISTORY ASSN.

Organization of an Orange county unit of the California State Historical Association was under way today, following a conference at the Bowers Memorial Museum yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock when the step was decided upon.

The action was taken by a group of 25 representatives of several organizations interested in historical matters, following an address by Owen C. Coy, professor of history at U. S. C. and a director of the State Association, which operates as an activity of the State Board of Education.

Coy described the aims and purpose of the state historical association, and how its work could be greatly aided by local county units, which would represent all organizations interested in historical matters.

Following Coy's talk, the group voted to form the new county unit and authorized appointment of a committee to bring it into being.

The committee named included Mrs. Fern Colman, of the California Association of Adult Education, Mrs. G. E. Ashby, representing the historical research group of the SEIRA, and Mrs. Matilda Lemon, representing the Native Daughters of Santa Ana.

After conferring with officers of some eight county organizations interested in the move, this committee expects to formulate its plans and call another organization meeting at a later date.

NURSERY SCHOOL WILL OPEN HERE

A nursery school for children from two to four years of age will open Wednesday morning in affiliation with the Visel studio, 1315 North Main street, as a private project sponsored by and under the direction of Holly Lash Visel and Yula S. Moore, with several mother assistants, it was announced today.

The usual high standards of nursery school requirements will be maintained with emphasis on recreation, assurance of freedom, outdoor play, ample rest, individual needs of health and mental development as well as social adjustments, it was stated. The object is not to relieve the mother of her responsibility, it was said, but to give the child its first social contact with other children.

The enrollment is limited because of space, and those planning to enter children for summer fall were requested to enroll them immediately, the announcement said.

CHICKEN THEFT SUSPECT ARRESTED

Allegedly caught in the act of stealing chickens last night about 11 o'clock, A. P. Rivera was in the county jail today charged with burglary. A companion, who escaped, is being sought by officers.

Rivera was captured by Antonio Armento of Stanton last night, according to reports of Deputy Sheriff Fred Swayze and Claude Potter of the Farm Detail who investigated the case.

Armento surprised the two men as they raided his chicken pens, he told officers, he captured them, and was holding them until officers, called by a member of the family, arrived. Meanwhile one of the men escaped, and nine chickens were missing today.

Swayze and Potter brought Rivera to the county jail, and he was to be arraigned in Anaheim justice court today.

The field meeting will be held at the C. W. Thornburg orchard, one-half mile west of Olive on the Anaheim-Orange boulevard Tuesday at 9:30 a. m. The meeting is open to all growers regardless of marketing affiliation.

Goodspeed comes to Orange county at the invitation of Fama Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg to explain how the surplus control program for walnuts under the A. A. A. is administered and how each grower's income is affected by its operations. Goodspeed's talk is part of the program arranged for the Annual Orange County walnut growers field day held under the auspices of the Agricultural Extension Service and the Farm Bureau walnut department.

Recommendations for this season's coding moth control will also be presented by Roy E. Black, deputy agricultural commissioner in charge of walnut pest control work in Orange county. One of two modern tower spraying outfits will be on the ground to demonstrate efficient application of spray materials in walnut trees. Dates for commencing coding moth spraying in different parts of the county will be announced at this time.

Brief reports on the walnut outlook, and the walnut production cost analysis just compiled by the farm advisor's office will complete the morning's program. The Extension Service in arranging the program includes J. A. Smiley, Orange; Rufus Porter, Fullerton; Geo. Cole, Garden Grove; D. S. Halladay, Santa Ana; R. A. -- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON

By Paul Mallon

STOKING

It appears Father Coughlin has become the nation's greatest furnace man of all time. At least he is gaining that reputation, rightly or wrongly, in circles where it will do him the most good in Washington.

For example, even the bonus lobbyists, who know all there is to know, were astounded when Senator Thomas made a motion in the Senate the other day to hold up his own Patman inflationary bonus bill. It looked as if Thomas intended slaying his own child.

That is, they were astounded until they dashed downstairs to associates of Senator Thomas, who explained with a wink:

"He is just holding the bill up for a few days so Father Coughlin can turn the heat on President Roosevelt to sign it."

OUT-MODING

The excuse officially offered was that the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars were to increase temperatures both inside the White House and Congress. This was really an after-thought. Everyone connected with the show knew Father Coughlin was the man. He has outmoded the tactics of the veterans' lobbies, which were pre-eminent in the Washington field until he discovered the radio. He is supposed to have influence which reaches higher than they ever hoped to.

The reason is not entirely clear. It appears to be founded on congressional suspicion that the priest is the one who forced the administration into the silver policy against its better judgment. Also, congressmen have seen for themselves what he can do when he turns the heat on them. They concede he defeated the World Court, although, of course, they admit he caught the administration of guard on that issue.

LEADING

It will be denied, but it is nevertheless a fact, that Coughlin did not change a senatorial vote on the inflationary bonus bill. His radio heat warmed up the telegraph wires with possibly 70,000 messages from voters to senators. But the original private polls made by the veterans' lobbies before Coughlin spoke showed the exact numerical lineup later disclosed in the official roll call. This shows the result would have been precisely the same if he had not spoken.

However, this will not shake Coughlin's reputation as a furnace man. One element of leadership is to find out where the army is going and then ride out in front of it and take it there.

BIG-HEARTED

Imagine the New Dealers trying to sue Andrew Mellon for unfavorable publicity! It may be incredible, but it is confirmable.

The facts seem to be that the eagle eyes of the Federal Trade commission detected a violation of the coal code, involving sale of five cars of coal slag at below code price, by a Pennsylvania mine man who could call Mellon boss if the two ever met.

The FTC brought the matter privately to the attention of the NRA for action, but the NRA protested. In conferences between the two agencies, NRAs have stated that, since code violations are widespread anyway, this seems a small one to press.

To complete the enigma, the labor representation within the NRA is siding with Mellon, probably for the first time in history.

UNRAVELING

The answer to this soft-heartedness of the NRA-ers toward Mellon has ramifications. The United Mine Workers, who now have representation on the NRA board, also have wage contracts with the so-called Mellon coal interests. These contracts expire in June, and the labor group wants to renew them. Furthermore, the prosecution of Mellon on a charge of income tax trickery has worked out less than half-well.

But perhaps the best answer is that only a piousness sum is involved and Mellon never heard anything about it anyway.

NOTES

There will be only two more tests of the New Deal in the supreme court this session: (1) The Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage law, and (2) the Chosen NRA case. Odds are heavily against the court fully approving either law.

A change of opinion on the bonus has been noticeable for months in Wall Street quarters. A majority of the best minds are said to have been in favor of paying it and getting it over with. They have been thinking about what it would do for the automobile industry and not for the treasury.

Workers for the Wagner labor bill (and there are many) are jubilant about prospects of getting it through the senate, but not through the house. That was done last session. Chances of final enactment are no better.

One of the largest magazines is now sending rejection slips to cabinet officers and high New Dealers on all articles submitted. A year ago, magazines were clamoring for such big-name articles, most of which were prepared by press agents acting as ghost writers.

NEW YORK

LIAISON

Secretary Roper's Business Planning and Advisory Council has been little more than a useful administration stogie for many months. It has held meetings and proffered advice—but nobody seemed to care. Some of its members were fed up with the casual treatment given their views and had gone so far as to advocate the group's dissolution.

But things are going to be different now. Insiders understand that the Councilors who called at the White House to offer the string of Chamber of Commerce criticism were assured that hereafter their ideas would receive prompt and serious attention. It would be a mistake to characterize the group as liberals because they backed the President on NRA. They are by no means whole-hearted adherents of the New Deal. But they do figure it's wiser to consider the administration's viewpoint and work with it as far as possible instead of bucking at every turn. They are due to be regarded for sticking consistently to this attitude.

The point is that the council is now the ONLY body representative of business sentiment in friendly contact with the administration. It therefore has a double liaison job of great importance. Industry must rely almost entirely on its influence to modify leftist trends. Conversely its prestige with other business men is the president's sole hope of getting any constructive contributions to recovery from industry. Its activity will be worthy of close attention.

GENTLE

New York banks have had their keenest scouts in Washington applying the prospects of banking legislation. The scouts have had their troubles estimating the effects of confusing cross-currents. But they are now in general agreement that when the wheels within wheels spin the bill will be enacted substantially as it stands.

Financial conservatives are pretty blue about it — though they admit there won't be much practical difference between legally authorized Reserve Board and the unofficial control which the Treasury has exercised over the Federal Reserve banks in the past two years.

Some New Yorkers are inclined to criticize the American Bankers' Association for being too gentle in its opposition to Title II. But most financial men agree that more strenuous resistance might have revived the old Washington war cry that the banks are to blame for everything—thus paving the way for even more distasteful legislation.

DIRECTORS

Title III—the "technical amendment" section of the banking bill—has been almost ignored in the debate over deposit insurance and Federal Reserve reform. But one of its provisions would raise Cain with the directorates of big New York institutions. A number of financial headlines still hold directorships in more than one Federal Reserve member bank—and they will be barred from doing so if this section is passed unamended.

The directors affected don't like the idea but they won't argue the point. "They feel that to do so would only stir up fresh Washington excitement about 'the money trust'."

COMPROMISE
New Yorkers in close touch with Washington say that leading Democratic Senators have told FDR he has no chance whatever of getting all his program enacted. It's reported they advised him that the only way he can be sure of getting any part of it through is to concentrate on the two or three measures he wants most and horse-trade on the others.

These sources also report that Democratic senators who come up for reelection in 1936 are convinced that this time they will have to depend more on themselves and less on Mr. Roosevelt. This feeling is understood to be quite a factor in the disintegration of party discipline.

New York analysts dope it that Congress is more conservative than the President on reform legislation but distinctly more radical on the subject of inflation. They therefore predict that FDR will have to give ground in order to avert monetary experiments. Financial circles would rate a compromise along these lines all to the good.

DELICATE
Republicans have started money raising in earnest. They have a new system this year. Instead of chipping in separately for national, state and county organizations you make a single contribution to a central Finance Committee which allocates receipts on the basis of estimated requirements. Donors have kicked in the past about the irritation of multiple solicitations and the party managers are trying to make giving as painless as possible. The New York county Finance Committee has a quota of $250,000 for 1935.

OMISSION
Wall Streeters who suspect something sinister in every Washington gesture are all excited because the Treasury's month-end statement for April—supposed to be a complete recapitulation of all direct federal debt—makes no mention of the baby bonds sold in the last two months. Admittedly it's a minor item, but some sources would have you believe that the omission is the beginning of a dire plot to mislead the public as to the Treasury's true condition. If Mr. Morgenthau omits these figures again at the end of May they will believe the worst.

Education Of Youth To Liquor Evils Held Need

TUSTIN UNION HEARS TALK BY LEAGUE LEADER

TUSTIN, May 11.—Our standards of life are threatened by the return of booze since prohibition was repealed," Dr. James A. Walton, superintendent of the Anti-Cigarette League of Los Angeles, declared in a forceful address on "Temperance" at Friday's regular meeting of the Tustin Women's Christian Temperance union, held in the Presbyterian church parlor, with Mrs. Margaret Utt, president, presiding.

"The only way we can combat the evils of alcohol is to properly educate our youth," the speaker said, predicting that prohibition will eventually return, but stressing that the dry forces must not rest until it does. With the use of illustrated charts, Dr. Walton explained the harmful effects of alcoholic beverages upon the various parts of the human body.

Special musical numbers on the program included an instrumental solo and a medley of "Mother" songs by Mrs. Vincent L. Humeston; a Negro song, "Mammy Song" by Mrs. George Gaylord; and a vocal duet, "Sleepy Head" by Mrs. Gaylord and Mrs. Humeston, with the latter at the piano.

The DARK BLOND

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MILICENT GRAVES, secretary to GEORGE DRIMMOLD, finds her employer in his office dead. JARVIS HAPP, a stranger, offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty shop where she is transformed into a blond. She meets HARRY, a handsome man, who is introduced to her by HARRY's partner, ROBERT HAPPA, and VERA DUCHENE, Mrs. Happa's maid.

In Harry's home Millicent sees the mysterious woman in black ermine whom she believes has some connection with Drimmold's death. The chauffeur is killed. Later Harry is kidnapped.

Millicent and Norman learn the car driven by the woman in ermine belongs to PHYLLIS FAULCONER. They go to her apartment and find there someone tries to enter. Norman follows to find out who it is. Millicent discovers the suitcase containing Happa's business accounts. She takes it and goes to the hotel where she stopped before. The clerk telephones Happa in New York.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVII
Millicent turned away from the telephone and faced the door, feeling sick with dread. No one could possibly know of that room in the hotel unless it was someone who had followed her as a cat plays with a mouse.

The pounding on the door was repeated, this time more insistently. Millicent made up her mind that, come what might, she was not going to open that door. The door was locked, and whoever wanted to get in would have to break it down.

She stood perfectly still, listening, waiting. Once more the knuckles pounded on the door, and a man's voice said, "Please let me in."

Millicent's heart gave a wild surge. She thought she recognized the man's voice. She literally ran across the room to the door and said, "Who is it, please?"

"Thank God you're safe," Her quivering fingers twisted the key in the lock.

Norman Happa pushed the door back, entered and clasped her in his arms—all as it seemed to Millicent in one swift motion.

"My precious," he said. "Oh, my dear one!" Without volition on her part, her face tilted back. Millicent knew that her soul was in his eyes. Her lips were half-parted as she gasped, "Norman, I'm so glad I'm so . . ."

His lips pressed close to hers, stopped her words. For a long, blissful moment she clung to him, her heart seemed to throb in unison with his heart. Then she pushed him away, half-laughing, half-sobbing.

Norman looked impatiently over

New building permits issued in the past few days by Floyd W. Case, city building inspector, included one to Ethel Whitted, 551 Coast boulevard, South, at $2,500, and another to Robert Stewart at 575 Thalia street, H. C. Hind, contractor, at $1,000. Included among permits for alterations, extensions and repairs, were one to Lee D. Garmes, motion picture director, Bluebird canyon, at $350, and John Riley, 315 Magnolia drive, at $300.

Inquiries at the office of Ropp and Mackey, local building contractors, disclosed that residences are now in construction for the following parties: Mrs. E. M. Boden, St. Ann's drive, five-room house, Cape Cod design; Walter L. West, Irvine, residence on Cliff drive; Miss Elsie M. Adams, Los angeles, five-room house on Ealmor way; Miss Mildred H. Crosswhite, five-room house, Arch Beach; Alonzo H. Craft, Tustin, six-room, two-story Tustin type of home on Holly street.

"We do not sanction rowdy or objectionable parties who have respect for the wishes of decent citizens nor the rights of our patrons and who seem to delight in leaving all their garbage and refuse on an otherwise clean and beautiful beach, such as the citizens of Laguna Beach rightly demand."

"A Cinch," he told her. "Just between you and me, Cynthia has already got the $100,000, but Sergeant Mahoney thinks there's more to it than just a question of $100,000."

"How could there be? What does he mean?"

"I don't know. It's one of those things that Sergeant Mahoney handles in his own way. He isn't telling us all that he knows . . . but we've got to do something about getting your troubles cleaned up. What brought you here?"

"I waited for you. You didn't come. I looked in the closet and found the suitcase containing the money that had been stolen from my room. They are still in the original suitcase. I took them out and brought them here. I waited an opportunity to work on them before I said anything to anyone. I think they'll show that Dick Gentry is short in his accounts—badly short."

"Gentry's a crook," Norman said. "And he's mixed up in this thing so deep he'll never convince me he isn't a double-crossing, four-flushing traitor."

"We have to get that money man to get look at Phyllis Faulconer. We'll better do that," Norman said.

"I'm not going to leave this room," she told him, "until I've gone over these books."

"And I'm not going to leave this room. I'm going to stay here and protect you," he assured her. She hesitated a moment, then said, "Promise me you won't interfere."

"You mean by being impulsive?"

"Yes," she said. He nodded his head. "At any rate, I can try," he asserted. "I feel like a cad for the way I burst in on you and took you in my arms. But when I felt your lips clinging close to mine I just couldn't . . ."

A hungry light gleamed once more in his eyes. Millicent found her eyes held by his. She couldn't look away—nor did she want to. Almost involuntarily she found herself swaying toward him and then was clasped in his arms, his lips seeking hers and her tips clinging in an embrace which seemed to drain her soul into some vast well of harmony where it mingled with his.

"Norman," she whispered, and heard his voice pouring into her ears.

"My sweetheart, my own, my dearest one."

"How about raising the ransom?" she asked.

CHAIN BARRIER IS ERECTED ON HOTEL'S BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, May 11.—Echoes of controversial labors raised last summer when the question of ownership of sand strips fronting beach property came before the city council in connection with various complaints, were again heard today with the erection of chain barriers on the beach sand fronting the property of the Laguna Hotel corporation.

Inquiries at the city hall disclosed that the greater portion of the beach in the downtown business district is private property, subject to the control of the owners of abutting beach holdings. Further inquiries revealed that the boardwalk from the bath house to the sound end is private property. The public beach extends from Broadway in a northerly direction to Boat canyon.

In connection with the action taken by the hotel company, Lloyd J. Seisler, manager of Hotel Laguna, today released the following statement for publication:

"Because of some discussion indicating misinformation regarding the chain railing on the beach property of Hotel Laguna, I feel that a statement will definitely clarify the question."

"All deeds to ocean front property read 'To the Pacific ocean.' Our chain railing does not extend to the Pacific ocean nor does it even extend to the average high tide line, but we believe it does extend far enough to protect our property rights and afford enough to satisfy the patrons and friends of Hotel Laguna that we are doing our best to maintain the type of service our patrons and friends expect and appreciate."

"We do not sanction rowdy or objectionable parties who have respect for the wishes of decent citizens nor the rights of our patrons and who seem to delight in leaving all their garbage and refuse on an otherwise clean and beautiful beach, such as the citizens of Laguna Beach rightly demand."

BOOK REVIEWS

BY MARY BURKE KING

Queen Victoria by E. F. Benson published by Longmans, Green and Co.

In many ways reading this book after Francis Hackett's "Francis the First" is a nice experience. E. F. Benson has a straightforward style which is delightful. Queen Victoria and Prince Albert were models of propriety which is a tonic and furthermore Prince Albert was a peace-maker who contrasts amiably with the war-loving king Francis of France.

Queen Victoria was both quaint and willful. The politics of the period is of more significance to us today than the personality of the Queen and it is clearly and not at all tiringly presented.

Queen Victoria has not been a very exciting figure, but presented by this author she becomes as entertaining as she undoubtedly was important. This biography by E. F. Benson is particularly recommended as an antidote for modernism.

SOS To The Rescue by Karl Baarslag, published by the Oxford University Press.

"SOS To The Rescue" is grim and thrilling. This author has taken the wonder of wireless telegraphy, and has given an absorbing story of the beginning and growth of wireless as it has affected man's efforts at sea.

The disasters of the Titanic, the Vestrir, the Morro Castle, the Tashmoo, many others, are told. They are grim and heavily tragic for in some of the cases rescue was so near at hand, or brought about, as in the case of Tashmoo, by so slim a chance. Radio figured in all of them. Many of the stories are of radio men who gave their lives while remaining at their post transmitting the news of the plight of the vessel to those who might be able to render assistance.

The stories are heroic. There is little humor except in one instance in the case of a Russian concert singer. The vessel on which he and several hundred fellow passengers were trapped was on fire. The sea was so rough that the rescue boats couldn't come close enough to take the people off directly into the boat. Although their plight was desperate they refused to comply with the urging of the men manning the rescue boats from the ships standing by that they jump into the sea and they would pull them out. It was their only chance. The officers had urged them to take it. Finally the Russian determined to jump. But first he sought the captain at his post on the ship, so hot that the shoes were burning from his feet, and asked his permission to leave the ship. He had learned ship ethics in the short time he had been aboard.

The Other Germany by Gordon Bolitho published by Appleton Century Co.

Gordon Bolitho, a New Zealander became a student at Heidelberg. He was a student there for two years and in the vacations he traveled about Germany and was a guest in the homes of various student friends. He came to know the Germany outside of Berlin. And that that Germany he feels the world needs to be told.

"When I read the English newspapers," he says, full of news of the ever-changing Germany, I cannot believe that they are writing of this country. Perhaps it is because the British diplomats and politicians and journalists see a different Germany. Just as we thought of all Germans as Prussians in the war, so we seem to think of them all as citizens of Berlin in the time of peace. . . . I wish the politicians and delegates would come more simply and stay longer. As it is, they come in first-class carriages, for most German people travel third."

In "European Journey" Sir Philip Gibbs undertook to interpret for us the attitude of the people in the various countries, not the politicians and diplomats but the people. He did an excellent piece of work. This book is a book in spirit with that but quite different. It is concentrated on Germany and is rather concentrated on youth. Expressions on politics are secondary to the portrayal of personal contacts which the author had.

There are some interesting chapters on the ancient and honorable custom, in Germany, of dueling. They are written with careful attention to detail and the result is an enlightening treatise on the matter.

"The Other Germany" is a youthful book, and a timely book. It should ably serve the purpose for which it was written.

A Spanish Marriage
Fiesta time, and all within is gay. A Spanish marriage feast is holding sway.
Here old adobe walls, against which lean
The young blades decked in satin sheen.
From balconies are vivid colors hung,
Serapes over youthful shoulders flung.

Soft music strums... the tunes they play are old...
They play of sunny Spain, of pirate gold.
The dancing señoritas madly whirl,
Their lace mantillas held with combs of pearl.

So gracefully the castanets they use!
Their little feet like mice, in red-heeled shoes,
Skip in and out beneath their skirts of lace....
The dance a mesh of color and of grace.

And there the caballero and his bride
The padre blesses as they stand in pride....
The candles sputter low at close of day....
They both call... "Adios"... and ride away.

REQUIESCAT IN PACE
Her hesitating steps had found the room.
With hooded eyes she peered into the gloom.
Where sombre people moved with silent tread,
And watched them minister unto the dead.

She saw dim phantoms come to life. She bade
One eerie figure cut the dark, then bade
Six burning tapers flank the candle-falae.
She came, this time, in retrospect to walk,
To keep a rendezvous with Love—his hand

In hers. Now he at last would understand.
Forgotten were the storms and strife of years;
All bitterness was washed away with tears.
For now she gazed beyond the candles glow,
And lived her wedding day of long ago.

HEPBURN FILM AND THRILLER AT WALKER'S

One of the outstanding dramatic films of the year and a new thriller-type action picture which presents the new streamlined train, are teamed on the double bill which opens tomorrow at Walker's State theater.

Katharine Hepburn and John Deak have the lead in the drama, "The Little Minister," based on Sir James Barrie's famous novel. It tells the romance of a Scottish pastor in the village of Threums with a fiery young girl who incites the weavers of the community to fight against labor conditions and oppose attempts at punishment of the weavers by the authorities.

Alan Hale has an important part as the village ruffian, whom the "little minister" reclaims. The film also contains an element of mystery and intrigue.

"The Silver Streak" is the other picture. In it are combined many modern scientific achievements, including the new streamlined speed train of the Burlington Railroad, the Moffat tunnel, Boulder dam and the Drinker respirator, which is used to combat paralysis of the lungs.

The story is a thrilling one and shows the train going at full speed while the engineer is in a death grip with an assailant, with many narrow escapes as the train flashes around curves, past switches that are closed just in the nick of time and over draw bridges that are barely powered in time to prevent disaster. The love interest is carried by Sally Blane and Charles Starrett. Comedy is provided by Edgar Kennedy, Arthur Lake and Guinn Williams. Others in the cast include Hardie Albright, William Farnum and Theodore von Eltz.

The program also includes a color cartoon, "Dutch Mill."

BOOK "NAUGHTY MARIETTA" FOR NEXT THURSDAY AT BROADWAY

Music, romance, stirring drama and spectacle blend in one of the outstanding screen productions of the year in "Naughty Marietta," MGM's haunting screen transcription of Victor Herbert's masterpiece, which will show at the West Coast theater for a week starting next Thursday.

The charming music of the great composer, as sung by Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy playing the leading roles in the picture, is heard against a thundering background of drama. The settlement of Louisiana, pioneer struggles, the "Marriage Auction" of St. Louis of the old Creole days, the capture of the Casquette Girls by pirates, their rescue, and other gripping dramatic details are woven into a story that, aside from music, provides an epic recital of the founding of one of America's most romantic cities.

Amid the drama runs romance, and with it such great song hits as "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "I'm Falling in Love with Someone," "Chansonette," "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," and others of Herbert's immortal airs.

An elaborate cast was assembled for the picture. Elsa Lanchester, the famous Anne of Cleve of "Henry the Eighth," is intriguing as a gorgeously gownned wife of a French governor of Louisiana, the role played with compelling skill by Frank Morgan. Akim Tamiroff, former Moscow Art theatre star, plays Rudolph, the puppeteer, and Joseph Cawthorne is loveable as old Herr Schumann. Comedy is handled with skill by Edward Brophy and Harold Huber as the two sergeants, advance notices say.

DIETRICH FILM, COMEDY END RUN

"The Devil Is a Woman," starring Marlene Dietrich in the greatest part in her career, will show for the last times at the Broadway theater tonight, along with a second feature, "Mary Jane's Pa," a comedy-drama highlighted with romance and human interest in which Guy Kibbee and Aline MacMahon are co-starred.

Taking the part of a factory girl who becomes one of the most glamorous and dangerous women in Europe, Miss Dietrich is said to eclipse any of her former performances in "The Devil Is a Woman." Brilliant photography and gorgeous costumes feature the film, which has a cast including Cesar Romero, Edward Everett Horton, Alison Skipworth, Don Alvarado and Morgan Wallace.

"Mary Jane's Pa" tells a richly human and sympathetic story of a printer who had the wanderlust so deeply imbedded in his nature that it forced him to desert his family, although he thought he was leaving them with enough to get along on. When he returns after an absence of a number of years he becomes involved in a situation which is unique and which brings about a surprise climax.

NEWSPAPER STORY AND HOLLYWOOD COMEDY COMING

"Advice to the Lovelorn," a newspaper story with Lee Tracy cast as the reporter who as punishment for missing a big story is required to take over the paper's "agency" column, comes to Walker's state theater Wednesday and Thursday.

On the same program is "365 Nights in Hollywood," a comedy concerning a boy, a girl and a couple of ambitious ice-men who desire to be film stars. James Dunn is the boy, Alice Faye the girl and Mitchell and Durant, the vaudeville comic team, the ice-men. A fake movie school is part of the plot.

A music novelty, "Little Jack Little," is included on the program.

The feature for next Friday and Saturday is Bob Steele in "Kid Courageous."

MAE WEST PICTURE OPENS ON MAY 23

Mae West, whose list of "tall, dark and handsome," has been swelling from picture to picture, attains her all-time record in her new picture, "Goin' to Town," which comes to the West Coast theater on May 23, according to an announcement made today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

Seven "leading men" are Miss West's total in the new picture, and no one of them has ever acted with her before.

Paul Cavanaugh heads the list as the man Miss West really loves, with Ivan Lebedeff, Tito Coral, Fred Kohler, sr., Monroe Owsley, Gilbert Emery and Grant Withers, running him close seconds.

Alexander Hall directed "Goin' to Town," in which Mae West starts out as a cowboy's sweetheart and winds up by roping in society.

The program also includes a color cartoon, "Dutch Mill."

ROCHE MYSTERY FILM TO OPEN AT BROADWAY

A glamorous mystery romance of modern New York which appeared in serial form in the Red-book magazine is the basis for a thrilling new drama, "Star of Midnight," double-starring William Powell and Ginger Rogers, which will open an engagement of four days at the Broadway theater tomorrow.

Written by the late Arthur Somers Roche, the story has a background of social and night life in the gay Metropolis plus some of the rendezvous of the underworld. William Powell is a brilliant young lawyer who falls strangely into a Sherlock Holmes part and then has to fight desperately for his own safety. Ginger Rogers, EKO-Radio's sensational young lyric, terpsichorean and dramatic star, is a youthful society girl whose interest in the mystery is largely due to her romantic interest in the suave Powell.

Other characters involved in the swift-moving events that stir society, the stage and the police headquarters are a scandal-monger columnist, shot to death early in the action, a butler who is wise in the ways of the "Four Hundred," police inspectors, a lawyer and his wife, a gangster chief and a young society man who is in love with a girl who has disappeared under strange circumstances. Paul Kelly, Leslie Fenton, Gene Lockhart, Russell Hopton, J. Farrell MacDonald and Ralph Morgan are in the strong supporting cast.

Short subjects on the program include a color cartoon, "Picnic Panic;" a Grantland Rice Sport-lite, "Animal Intelligence;" a pictorial novelty, and World News events.

IN "STAR OF MIDNIGHT"

The suave mystery sleuth who made such a big hit in "The Thin Man" and the girl who charmed millions in "Roberta," are teamed for the first time in the new mystery romance, "Star of Midnight," which opens at the Broadway theater for an engagement of four days tomorrow. William Powell and Ginger Rogers are shown in the picture below in a scene from the thrilling mystery.

"BRIDE OF FRANKENSTEIN"

Valerie Hobson and Karloff as "the Monster," are shown in one of the tense and thrilling scenes from "The Bride of Frankenstein," sequel to the former picture, "Frankenstein," which shocked audiences here not long ago. "The Bride of Frankenstein" opens an engagement of five days at the West Coast theater today.

ACTION FILM, MYSTERY WILL OPEN THURSDAY AT WEST COAST

Blazing a path of a pioneer of a new type action picture, George O'Brien's new starring picture, "The Cowboy Millionaire," will open at the Broadway theater next Thursday for three days with a second feature, "Chinatown Squad," an exciting drama of Chinatown.

Action in "The Cowboy Millionaire" ranges over six thousand miles from London's spires to Arizona's deserts. This is a different picture than O'Brien has been seen in before, Manager Lester J. Fountain announced. No cowboy shoots up the dust of the village street. No chase predominates the picture, yet the fast-moving film is packed to the hilt with action.

Evelyn Bostock, talented English film actress, plays the female leading role opposite O'Brien. Edgar Kennedy, Alden Chase and Maude Allen make up the supporting cast. Interwoven into the swift and dramatic action of the film is a tender romance.

The famous Chinatown Squad of San Francisco police department plays a prominent part in "Chinatown Squad," which stars Lyle Talbot and Valerie Hobson. It tells of the adventures of the picked squad of men that patrol the mysterious district which has a population of 15,000 Orientals. In the picture, a murder is committed in a Chinese cafe, and the story concerns the solution of the mysterious crime. The picture was actually filmed in the locale of the story. Hugh O'Connell and Andy Devine have important roles.

CLASSIC AND AIR PICTURE COMING

Two films which have just been released, "The Hoosier Schoolmaster" and "Air Hawks," will open a double-feature program at the Broadway theater on May 23, it was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

Adapted from the famous story of life in the Indiana backwoods by Edward Eggleston, "The Hoosier Schoolmaster" features a cast headed by Norman Foster and Charlotte Henry. The story deals with the trials encountered by a youthful Civil War veteran who takes a position as schoolmaster in a small Indiana village.

Dealing with a death ray which could cause destruction from almost any distance, "Air Hawks" features Ralph Bellamy, Wiley Post, Tala Birell, Douglass Dumbrille, Victor Kilian and Billie Seward.

WESTERN PICTURE ENDS RUN TONIGHT

Randolph Scott, Jack Coogan, Evelyn Brent and Ann Sheridan will be seen in "Home on the Range" for the last times at Walker's State theater tonight.

The Zane Grey story concerns the activities of a band of crooks who almost succeed in stripping two brothers of their ranch and string of race horses, but who are saved when the girl accomplice of the band falls in love with Scott, and comes to his aid.

The newly married couple left for a trip to Yosemite, planning to return next week to establish their home at Irvine, where Mr. McCullough is employed with the Union Oil company. He has lived in Orange county for five years, coming to this community from his native state, Pennsylvania.

You and Your Friends

Gaining rapidly in health after undergoing a major operation in Mayo Brothers clinic, Rochester, Minn., Frederick Hermon is now at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James K. Hermon, Newport Road. Mrs. Hermon was in Rochester with her son during his serious illness, and accompanied him home when his condition improved sufficiently for him to make the trip.

Miss Maude Moore, who teaches in Oceanside schools, is here for a weekend visit with her mother, Mrs. Maggie J. Moore, 1208 North Van Ness avenue.

Varieties of Planting
Will Be Exemplified
In Garden Tour

She was a slight and gray haired little old lady. Quiet voiced and serene, but with a glint of humor gleaming from those quiet eyes. And she loved flowers and gardens and all growing things.

She knocked one day this week, at the door of Miss Mabel McFadden's home on North Main street, to inquire about the possibilities of Santa Ana Y. W. staging another garden tour this year. It was Miss McFadden's happy privilege to assure her that there was indeed going to be a repetition of that affair which was so memorable a feature of last spring. And it was with much interest indeed that Miss McFadden heard that her caller had come especially from Los Angeles to find out about the tour, and learn when it would take place if there was to be one.

"I happened to be in Santa Ana last year at the time, and went on the garden tour. It was so enjoyable that I was eager to go again," she explained. Her pleasure was pronounced in learning that there will be two tours this year, the first scheduled for next Tuesday afternoon and the second for Saturday afternoon, May 25. Members of the Y. W. who are planning for the events under general direction of Mrs. M. Burr Wellington, have even arranged transportation for those wishing it. All that is necessary is to telephone the Y. W. at 2081, leaving name and address, and automobiles will be sent for prospective passengers.

And all the garden lovers, whether they be those with stored memories of many years in their hearts, or those of fewer years to record, may be assured of a most enjoyable afternoon, which will even include tea, served from 4 to 5 o'clock in the garden of the Hugh Gerrard home, 2009 Victoria Drive.

The tour, beginning at 2 o'clock and continuing until 6, will offer every variety of home garden. Those interested especially in that air of privacy and seclusion which is so typical of our British cousins, may see how charmingly it can be attained at the Dr. Frank Patterson home. No more interesting treatment of a patio could be devised than that given in the William E. Otis home on Victoria drive.

For an interesting handling of rear gardens, visitors may study those of the A. W. Rutan home while nearby is the Roy Langley garden with its effective landscaping of the river bank. Design in planting will be emphasized to those who include the Heber Fowler garden on West Santa Clara avenue.

Those who have only a limited space to develop, will receive valuable ideas from the small garden of Mrs. George Parker on South Van Ness avenue. All aspects of gardening may be seen at the Edward Wagner home where formal and informal planting, seclusion, flowers, greenery and various joys of the outdoors seem exemplified.

Truly an outdoor "living room" will be available at Dr. C. T. Cleland's home, and that at the D. D. Waynick home, 1908 North Fowler street, is equally "livable."

Visitors will be greeted in each garden by a little group of hostesses, the list to include Mesdames Ray Adkinson, Franklin West, Charles Swanner, W. B. Williams, Wendell Finley, Alan Revell, J. L. McBride, and E. B. Sprague, with their assistants whom they will select.

Hostesses Introduce Series of
Early Summer Parties

Initiating a series of luncheons with which they will enliven the early summer, Mrs. J. Frank Burke and her daughter, Mrs. Loyal K. King, yesterday entertained in the Burke home on Panorama Heights. Many flowers were used throughout the home and to embellish the two tables where guests were grouped for the luncheon hour.

Mrs. Burke presided over one table and Mrs. King over the second. The succeeding afternoon hours were devoted to contract, for which five tables were called into service. Holder of high score at each table received a prize.

The luncheon gave opportunity for Mrs. Burke and Mrs. King to present to a circle of their friends, Mrs. R. C. Hoiles and Mrs. Clarence Hoiles, newly arrived from Ohio, to establish homes in this community. A guest with them was Mrs. Clarence Hoiles' sister, Miss Evelyn Schieber of Bucyrus, Ohio, who accompanied Mrs. Hoiles from the east and will remain for an extended visit in the Southland.

Luncheon Guests Join
In Staging
Surprise Gift Shower

Pacific Coast club, Long Beach, was rendezvous yesterday for a group of wives of prominent physicians of this community when Mrs. D. C. Cowles of Fullerton presided at a luncheon delightfully conceived and executed as a compliment to Mrs. Harry G. Huffman of this city.

Mrs. Huffman, just concluding an interesting year and a half as president of Women's auxiliary to Orange County Medical association, had supposed the luncheon was entirely to honor retiring and incoming officers of her group. She was quite surprised to find that she herself was given prominence as chief honor guest. This pleasant fact was conveyed by the shoulder corsage of gardenias at her place at the luncheon table, larger and more elaborate than those awaiting the other guests.

It was given further emphasis when she was showered with fascinating packages, whose ribbons and tissues concealed dainty handkerchiefs and other small personal gifts from her sister auxiliary officers and officers-elect.

Mrs. Cowles had planned for a group of small tables, each one graced with vivid yellow daisies and blue cornflowers. There was a fashion revue in connection with the club's luncheon program, and after this had been enjoyed, the hostess led the way to the club library for an afternoon of informal chat.

Mrs. Cowles received as her guests in addition to Mrs. Huffman, Mesdames Hiram D. Curry, Dexter Ball, F. E. Coulter and H. K. Sutherland of this city; Herbert A. Johnston, E. H. Kersten and C. S. O'Toole, Anaheim; Ray Green (president-elect), G. Wendell Olson and A. W. Cleaver, Fullerton.

Orange County Medics
And Wives to Attend
State Conclave

Not only were various physicians of Santa Ana and Orange county, busy today in arranging affairs to enable them to attend the annual convention of California Medical association opening Monday in the Yosemite for a three days' session, but their wives, comprising the auxiliary to Orange County Medical association, were equally interested in plans for the simultaneous meeting of their state organization.

While the County Medical association will not be represented by either of its three chief officers, Dr. Ralph E. Hawes of Huntington Beach, president; Dr. John Ball, vice president, or Dr. Waldo Wehrly, secretary, the auxiliary on the contrary, will send its retiring president, Mrs. Harry G. Huffman of this city, and its president-elect, Mrs. Ray Green of Fullerton. Both are official delegates as are Mrs. Hiram Curry and Mrs. Milo K. Tedstrom, who likewise will attend as will many of the alternates.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry G. Huffman and Dr. and Mrs. Dexter Ball are leaving tomorrow morning by automobile for the valley, to remain throughout the convention sessions. Dr. and Mrs. Hiram Curry are taking their small son with them for the outing. Dr. Harry E. Zalsler, superintendent of Orange County General hospital, and Mrs. Zalsler will attend the sessions, the latter as one of the alternates for the county auxiliary.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Luther Maroon are hoping to attend some, if not all the sessions, and Dr. and Mrs. John Wehrly and Dr. and Mrs. Milo Tedstrom also are planning to be present. Dr. and Mrs. Ray Green of Fullerton will attend. Mrs. Green in her capacity as delegate and the newly elected president of Orange County auxiliary, Dr. and Mrs. G. Wendell Olson of Fullerton also are going, as are Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Beebe of Anaheim.

Auxiliary members are anticipating many social events in connection with their business meetings to be conducted by Mrs. Philip Schuyler Doane of Pasadena. Included will be the opening reception and tea Sunday, special luncheons, the past presidents tea, the general banquet of Tuesday evening, a luncheon for the auxiliary president-elect, Mrs. Thomas J. Clark, a musicale and bridge party.

There were some 200 couples to share the pleasant evening for which a program of popular dances was played by Fred Plimant's orchestra. The Misses Frances Alaup and Georgia Penlock formed the committee in charge, their responsibilities extending to securing the orchestra, arranging for prizes and the serving of punch.

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Tomato broth, 1 cup
1 slice broiled halibut
12 stalks fresh asparagus
1 tsp. butter and same of lemon juice for vegetable salad; 1-3 cucumber, sliced
1 tomato sliced
1 lettuce heart
6 radishes
Black coffee or clear tea, no sugar.

Canned tomato soup, much diluted with hot water, makes today's soup. Have the top cream of a bottle of milk well frothed. Put a small spoonful in the cup before the soup is served. . . . it looks rich . . . tastes rich . . . but is the opposite.
Have baked potatoes and hot rolls for the family dinner: that gives you a hot oven for broiling the halibut. Arrange slices in a shallow oiled pan, dust with salt and pepper, put a bit of butter on each slice and broil until brown on both sides. Utilize all oven heat by making some form of baked dessert for the family meal.

When you go into a shop to try on dresses, do you find yourself hard to fit all-of-a-sudden? Have you a favorite dress reaching for the shoulders for no good reason? Just stand up before a full length mirror and take stock . . . shoulders a bit bulky . . . rolls of fat under shoulders and around waist line . . . ankles getting thick-looking. Is that the way you invoice, physically? You are carrying too much weight! . . . in plain English, you're FAT! Do you want to get rid of this ungainly load, easily, safely, and comfortably? Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for our SAFE AND SANE REDUCING DIET. It does the trick.

Rye Bread Torte
6 egg yolks beaten with 1 scant cup sugar
1 heaping cup crumbed stale rye bread (grate it)
1 cup chopped walnuts
1-2 teaspoons baking powder
4 tablespoons coffee
6 stiffly whipped egg whites.
Beat egg whites with baking powder until stiff enough to stand in peaks. Beat yolks and sugar to a cream, add grated rye crumbs, chopped nuts and coffee. Mix and add by spoonfuls to the meringue mixture. Put into a buttered shallow casserole and bake 15 minutes in a slow oven, then slightly increase heat to finish baking (about 40 minutes all together). Serve hot, with thin cream.

Curried Eggs
Peel and slice 2 apples and 1 onion, cook to a soft yellow in 1-4 pound butter or margarine. Blend in 2 tablespoons flour, 1 heaping tablespoonful good curry powder, 1-2 tsp. paprika, 1 teaspoon sugar and a pinch of cayenne. When smoothly blended and bubbling hot, add milk (2 cups) and stir until you have a rich smooth sauce. Have ready about 6 hard boiled eggs, peeled and sliced. Put them into the sauce without stirring and keep hot until the boiling rice is ready—enough to make a border for a platter. Fill center with curried eggs and serve the dish with imported or any good home-made chutney sauce.

Cereal Macaroons
1-2 cups post toasts
1-2 cup wheat crackles
1 egg beaten with 1 cup sugar
1 cup finely shredded coconut
Pinch of salt
1-4 teaspoon almond extract.
To beaten egg and sugar add the cereals, salt and almond, lastly add coconut. Drop by spoonfuls on a buttered cookie sheet and bake in a slow oven until brown and crisp. "Rich but not gaudy," is the right description.

David Meyer and George Good.
Prizes during the afternoon were won by Mrs. F. D. Hawkinson and Mrs. W. E. Hennion, scoring high at auction and contract bridge; Mrs. Anna Gale received the sewing award. Mrs. Leota Allen, president, was in charge of business matters.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Christian Church

Text: Acts 2:41-45; Ephesians 4:1-7, 11-16

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 12.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of Advance

Out of faith and experience comes fellowship. Such was the origin of the Christian church, and such has been the origin of every new movement and organization in the history of the church.

Sometimes the faith and the experience are narrow, and the resulting movement and fellowship are sectional or sectarian. This, also, has been the history of the Christian church.

But in the beginning the church arose out of a very definite experience of repentance and salvation. The church had no great temples. There was no organization with worldly strength which men might join for the sake of social prestige, or for the sake of power.

The church consisted of small groups of those who had found the new experience of salvation and life in Christ Jesus. These groups met in a measure of seclusion, with the threat of persecution constantly upon them.

One can hardly think of anyone joining the church in those days except from strong conviction and because the church represented a fellowship in something more precious than anything that the world offered. The marvel is that even under these conditions the members of this early church were not always ideal.

We need only read Paul's epistles to see how even in this primitive church, where everything connected with it seemed to involve sacrifice, there were those whose lives were not proof against vice and whose spirits were not free from narrowness.

But here in our lesson, in the record of the first gathering and fellowship, we have the revelation of an ideal and practice so glorious that there seems little hope of humanity rising to it. So seriously did these early Christians take the words of Jesus concerning brotherly love and the surrender of all to God, that they were willing to disregard their personal possessions, to have all things in common, and even to sell what they had so that any man who needed might be supplied.

If one could find that quality of Christian character and Christian courage more widely exemplified, the solution of life's problems would be easy, particularly in an age when we have discovered that man's conquest of nature is able to provide an abundance of all that is necessary for human life and far beyond man's need.

To imagine, however, that such a state of society could be organized out of a world of unregenerate man, whose hearts and habits are dominated by self-interest, is to trust to a vain delusion.

Yet the ideal in this picture of the early church is one that should not lightly be obscured. The church in its true character represents a fellowship of love and service with life on a plane far above that of worldly ideals and motives.

The hope of the world is that, in a society dominated largely by self-interest, there are so many, like these early Christians, who live for higher things. They are in the world, but not of the world. They are subject to the conditions of society in which they live, but they recognize a higher loyalty to a Master who came not to seek his own, but to live for others and for the building up of the Kingdom of God.

The church, making its growth and progress in a world so different from itself, is often colored and marred by its environment. Yet to the eye of faith there is hope in the number of those who strive with sincerity and earnestness to live according to the teachings of Jesus and who seek through the fellowship of the church to leaven the world with righteousness, love and truth.

What real hope is there for the world apart from that?

POTTER TO BE ON PROGRAM AT TEMPLE SUNDAY

CCC ENROLLMENTS OPEN TO VETERANS

Word was received today from Washington, D. C. by Harry Edwards, Orange county veteran welfare officer, that enrollment for veterans in the CCC camps have been reopened. Any veterans in the county who wish to enroll were urged to contact Edwards in his offices in the courthouse annex.

While enrollments for persons not veterans have been closed at the local SERA offices, it is desirable that any youths between 18 and 25 who want to go to CCC camps register at the SERA headquarters, Second and Broadway streets, SERA officials said today.

The non-veteran quota for this county was 200 persons. Only 55 youths took advantage of the opportunity to enlist in the CCC.

Included in the group were Charles W. Wolford, grand knight of the Santa Ana council, Ernest Vosskuhler, scribe and district deputy; Clyde Ashen, financial secretary; and John Sedler, grand knight of the Anaheim council.

They were accompanied by Charles Maritz, grand knight of the San Diego council. The party expects to return home next Friday.

The committee on relations with the county board will be in charge of the meeting, under the chairmanship of William C. Baker. Other members of the committee are Bradford Hellis, Harold Harrison, John D. Kelly, P. N. Chapin, William H. Woodward and H. L. Manker.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

THE PREDICTION OF THE SECOND COMING

When the Pharisees sought to entangle Jesus with questions and asked Him concerning the payment of tribute, Jesus perceived their wickedness and told them to "render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's." He then confuted the Sadducees who sought to trap Him with questions concerning the resurrection and the lawyer who came tempting Him with a question: "Master, which is the great commandment in the law? Jesus said unto him, 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.'—Matthew 22: 36-39. Matthew 24 and Mark 13 say that Jesus then went to the mount of Olives, where He foretold to His disciples the destruction of Jerusalem and the signs of coming judgment, both teachings being recorded in the first three Gospels. The illustration is based upon that prophecy, and is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625-1630. "And then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven; and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, and they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory. And He shall send His angels with a great sound of a trumpet, and they shall gather together His elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other."—Matthew 24: 30-31.

Wee Scouty hung on good and knew, but he has brought the ink tight. The ink man said, Gee, son, you're light. Why, I could carry you through streams like this the livelong day.

"I will not hurry on this trip, 'cause, any minute, I might slip. Be patient and we'll reach the other bank. We're on our way." "Then to the Tynmies we'll go. They will be very pleased. I know. I hope the pirate has not harmed them while you've been with me."

"When he was taken from my well, I thought that he would treat you well." "And, so did I," said Scouty, "but he's mean as he can be."

And then they reached the near-by shore. "At last we're safe and sound once more," yelled Scouty. "Now, we'll have to walk about a mile or so."

"I'd like to loaf and have some fun, but we'd lose time. Come on, let's run. When there is something to be done, just walking seems quite slow."

The ink man smiled and said, "Well, I'd, to run real fast I would be glad, but I'm getting old. Perhaps you'd better run ahead."

He then heard little Scouty sigh and answer, "Aw, what good am I? I could not chase the pirate, so I'll walk with you, instead."

It wasn't very long until they reached the bunch, and what a thrill all of the little Tynmies got. "Three real loud cheers," cried one.

"That Scouty would return, I

EARTHQUAKE ISLAND

NIITAKA-YAMA, or the Great High Mountain, which rises 14,270 feet above sea level, helps protect the island of Formosa from the destructive typhoons that come up from the south. But even it shook like a mound of mud when the earth rocked and brought death to more than 3000 of the island's inhabitants recently.

This mountain, shown on Japan's stamp of 1923, is practically in the center of the island, not very far below the region of the recent earthquake. It is the highest mountain in all Japan. The stamp that pictures it, in two values, was issued in commemoration of the first visit of the Crown Prince of Japan to Formosa.

NEXT: What stamp was issued in honor of a great Finnish writer?

"WHICH IS THE WISER POLICY?"

The editor of the Annalist of New York, in his summing up of the business situation in the country, discusses the banking bill now before congress. This, as many may know, is one of the "must" measures which Mr. Roosevelt desires congress to pass at this session.

The editor asks the question, "Which is the wiser policy, political control or banking control of the banking situation?" Then he proceeds to show that banking control is the safer and better policy. He lays the whole blame for the severity of the depression upon the Federal Reserve system, whose board members refused to increase the discount rate when speculation was running wild in 1928.

Yet, we wonder if Senator Fletcher, chairman of the committee on banking in the senate, does not state a fact which can hardly be overlooked, when he says, "The bankers failed to discern the difference between purely banking functions and monetary policy operations."

It must be remembered that banks, before the passage of the Securities act of the last congress, not only did commercial banking, but through affiliates they were deep in the investment business.

This was largely the work of the New York bankers. The huge flotations of foreign bonds, which have ended so disastrously to investors, and the building up of such holding companies, as those by which the Van Sweringens of Cleveland built up their great railroad empire, which also have met with terrific disaster,—these were the work of bankers.

The fact that the Federal Reserve board, of which some bankers were members, did not raise the discount rate, cannot exonerate those wild promotions that have taken the savings of so many of our people.

The answer to the question of the editor of the Annalist is not so simple as he implies when he asks it. The alternatives he proposes are not sufficient to meet the situation.

We believe Senator Fletcher is nearer right. The editor himself, in his summing up, admits that the Federal Reserve board during the Coolidge administration became the tool of the Secretary of the Treasury.

Yet we have never heard any suggestion from the New York bankers to make such action in the future impossible by law. The Federal Reserve board was dominated by politicians then, according to the editor. We cannot see how the banking bill of 1935 makes it any more so.

At any rate, as the editor himself notes, there has been a strange indifference among the bankers of the country generally to the bill now before congress. This indicates that the bill steps on some toes, but by no means on all toes.

The answer to the old question, "What makes more noise under a gate than a pig?" was, "two pigs." It appears as if the question ought to be reversed in the case of the two bankers. In that case most of the noise is being made by the few rather than the many.

ADMIRAL SIMS ON KEEPING OUT OF WAR

Admiral Sims is a very frank man. It is refreshing to hear a naval officer speak the way he does.

We are not surprised that the World Peace foundation has asked him to be one of a series of speakers over the radio on world peace. From no civilian have we heard so much "debunking" of the idea of a navy that can beat the world.

The admiral in his address clearly disproves that any navy we might build could ever do any harm to Japan. With a cruising radius of 6000 miles, any fleet that could do harm to Japan would have to turn back immediately, on arriving in Japanese waters, to get more supplies.

The same would hold for a Japanese fleet which would essay to come over to our coast. He characterized the fears expressed by those who would have a bigger navy to meet this danger as "sheer nonsense."

The only way we can keep out of war, he said, is to tell our traders that if they do business with belligerents in a war they must do it at their own risk. It is the unholy passion for profit on the part of selfish traders, who claim the protection of their country for their selfish gain, which will draw us inevitably into any war, he declared.

The admiral cited the impossibility of any government controlling the acts of its traders unless the people stood behind their government. Even during the war, he said, the English government could not prevent its own nationals from supplying the enemy with goods and munitions.

This is the message that Admiral Sims is getting over to the people on the platform and over the radio. It is refreshing to hear such a message from one who took a leading part in the naval affairs of the last war, and whose efficiency has won for him degrees and honors of every kind, here in his own country and abroad.

A REVEALING BOOK

Some years ago, a young writer, Walter Millis, described the causes which led us into the war with Spain in 1898. It was a sorry and sordid story and it made that war appear more like a comic opera than a heroic and altruistic venture.

Now he comes out with another book, "The Road to War," in which he shows how we were dragged into the World war, in which he tells in an equally convincing way a similar story. It shows clearly that the little group in congress who voted against war, and whom President Wilson called "wifid men," were, after all, right.

Mr. Millis writes slightly of the unofficial diplomatic adventures of Colonel House, Mr. Wilson's private emissary. He shows the part played by our ambassador to London, Walter Hines Page, who wrote letters continually to the President urging him to abandon his neutrality attitude. At first Mr. Wilson was disgusted with his ambassador. He called him "just another Englishman."

But when the British propaganda machine went to work under the efficient leadership of Gilbert Parker, the American people were at last moved to support the Allies, and Wilson had to bow to the public sentiment in favor of war. In the meantime, the Allies were able to shut off any propaganda from Germany by the effective blockade of the British and French fleets.

This book, together with Mr. Millis' earlier book on the Spanish war, shows how nations are dragged into wars, and how the frenzy of patriotism is produced. They who would be wise when another war breaks out will do well to read this informing book.

GENERAL LUDENDORF PROCLAIMS HIS PAGANISM

General Ludendorf, one of the German military leaders during the World war, has come out with a statement in approval of the movement to change the gods of Germany. "Wotan," he says, "fits the German people better than Christ."

He says that he always has been a pagan, but that he was more convinced of it than ever after researches and studies made by his wife, in which she discovered that the genius of every nation formulates its own particular form of religion.

He states: "Christianity was never the type of religion for Germany. It is too soft and flabby. The German people are not of that stamp. For them the old Norse gods are much more appropriate and acceptable."

We really wonder how the severely orthodox and confessional Germans will take to this new religion. For them, the medieval forms and beliefs of Christianity are very sacred.

No one familiar with the conservative Lutheran church, either in Germany or in this country, can understand the seeming indifference of so many of the German people to this radical religious change proposed by the men who at present are in control there.

Germany has always been strongly nationalistic. Its religion has been of a nationalistic character within a Christian framework.

But between the Christianity of present-day Germany and the religion of the Norse gods, there is a chasm deep and impassable. At least, it would seem so to any one with a historic sense.

WHY MOTHER'S DAY?

Mother's day.

All over the nation and perhaps in many other places, that terrestrial saint will become the object of men's homage and veneration.

There is a dispute in progress as to who originated the idea. For the rest of us that is unimportant. But it is easy to understand why any person responsible for inspiring a thought should cherish the credit for it and yet nothing could be more unlike a mother than to squabble about whose was the credit.

One need only consult one's own experiences and seek in vain to recall a single instance when mother sought credit for the service and love she bore her kin. The home may have been unusually tidy, the meal may have been unusually tasty, the covers might have been tucked with especial care, the sick room may have been comforted by her almost divine presence, yet in not a single instance did she claim credit for it. Mothers find their satisfaction in something else.

It will be an odd son and daughter who permit Sunday to pass without some message, some greeting to the living mother or without some love-tinctured remembrance, or tribute to the mother dead.

Norse Singer's Achievement

New York Herald-Tribune

As human achievements go, that of Kirsten Flagstad, the Norse soprano, is surely remarkable. Mme. Flagstad, who sailed last week for her native Oslo, leaves behind her here the memory of deeds for which experienced opera-goers have vainly sought a precedent. Three months ago, when she joined the Metropolitan Opera Company, Mme. Flagstad was scarcely known save to her Norwegian compatriots and the attendants at recent Bayreuth Festivals. By the time she was ready to leave our shores she had repeatedly sold out the Metropolitan in performances of seven of the great roles of the Wagnerian repertoire, three of which she had sung for the first time in her career and one of which (Kundry in "Parsifal") she had learned in 18 days; she had made "Tristan and Isolde," Wagner's profoundest work, a post-season sensation, with queues of would-be ticket buyers extending half around the block; and she had become an operatic star of the first magnitude.

She had accomplished all this merely by bringing to bear upon the embodiment of her roles the skill of a consummate singing actress, a voice of extraordinary beauty, and the essential simplicity and esthetic piety of a great artist. For perhaps the outstanding thing that Mme. Flagstad accomplished was her demonstration of the fact that supreme beauty can become the most sensational of artistic phenomena. Mme. Flagstad did not exercise the conventional operatic lures. Rousades and altitudinous notes and spectacular histrionism were not part of her equipment. She devoted herself, with complete self-effacement, to the recreation of great music and great drama, and that was her achievement.

Undoubtedly it is true, as we have been reminded, that much of the applause for Mme. Flagstad was in reality a tribute to the vitality of the masterpieces which she conveyed with such astonishing eloquence. But in recognizing that fact, as of course we must, let us not underestimate the potent contributions of such genuine recreators as Mme. Flagstad. Isolde lives, indeed—but intermittently and unpredictably. She lives only when some interpreter of kindling power and, exalting imagination lights the torch or lifts the veil. It is only then that we witness the revelation of a mystery that nothing but faith and genius and inspiration can disclose.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE TOUR
Forty-two miles to the little old church,
Turn into Route Number Four,
Keep going straight
Over Route Number Eight
A mile and a half—maybe more.
Railroad to left and highway to right—
Wheat field, and three stacks of hay—
To the top of the ridge,
And ten under a bridge,
You simply can not miss your way.

Look out for train at the end of the road,
Give a couple of toots on the horn,
Up a long hill
To an old ruined mill,
And through a half acre of corn.
Turn at the corner to Route Number Eight,
Slide under the sign that reads "Stop!"
But better slow down
At the edge of the town
And keep your eye out for a cop.

Bad stretch on the road half a mile to the right,
Highway is under repair;
You had best throttle down
When you shoot through the town;
There's an Argus-eyed constable there.
The scenery—well, I suppose it's around,
It is always ahead on one side,
And I know you will say,
When the car's put away,
That you've sure had a peach of a ride.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

THE TWO-FOLD JOB OF UNIVERSITIES

Yesterday I spoke of the way in which, here and there and yonder throughout the nation, universities are under the critical fire of certain newspapers, certain crusading newspapers and certain local legislative forces.

I said that in a time of vast social uncertainty such as this, in a time when so many traditional political and economic policies are under strain, it is only natural that institutions like universities, which must seek new truth as well as concern themselves with old truth should be looked at critically.

When old truths we prize are in danger we are likely to fear the search for new truths and think that it would be better to defensive force rather than a force for discovery as well.

There should never be any attempt to shield our universities from the sincere, searching and sustained criticism of the people. When any institution is withdrawn from criticism and made sacrosanct it begins to die from that most malignant of all the new.

diseases that attack institutions, namely, the disease of complacency. There are unsolved problems aplenty in our universities - educational, social and moral - to challenge the best of all of us inside and outside our universities can muster of critical intelligence and social devotion.

But these problems will never be solved by those who insist that universities should be converted into mere intellectual market places where their pet set of political, economic or social opinions shall be retailed.

A university is at once society's organ of conservation and its organ of criticism. It must conserve the golden heart of the great traditions in which the race distills the wisdom of the centuries and gives expression the truth mankind has hammered out on the anvil of experience. But the university must also blaze trails into the future. Let's not permit the necessity for coming to the defence of the old truths lead us to prevent the discovery of the new.

Paternal pride is proverbial and instinctive, which is probably what has given it such power over parents and children. A goodly share of this pride is purely personal. "My child did this drawing." "My boy stood first in the test." Something of honor and dignity is added to the parent of the successful child. I am not decrying this in the slightest. What I want to emphasize is the opposite side of the picture, the awful shame that covers a parent whose child fails. That feeling is overdone and its effect on the children is far out of proportion to their share in the occasion.

For shame. They are signals of distress and a call for help in the school child's life and an indication of a lack of maturity, nothing more. One would not expect a little child to have perfect manners. Nor would a sensible person expect a high school student to be equally proficient in all subjects.

Shame is not a word to be used lightly in relationship to children. Save it for the occasion when hope will never come—spiritual catastrophe. Even that can be mended.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers as to the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)
